

Vino z Czech

Producer:	Chateau Valtice
Varietal:	Rivaner
Vintage:	2013
Total production:	5660 cases
Alcohol:	12%
Sugar:	2 g/l
Acid:	6 g/l
Region:	Moravia
Style:	Dry white

TASTING NOTES

Rivaner (also known as Müller-Thurgau) is a crossing of Riesling and Madeleine Royale and is the most planted "new breed" created since the 19th century. This 2013 Rivaner is delicate and harmonious while retaining mouthwatering juiciness. It is a dry wine with intense peach on the nose that is perfectly matured with good structure and a long, refreshing finish. This is a perfect picnic wine. Complex yet easy to drink alone or with traditional white wine pairings.

VINIFICATION PROCESS

The vinification process preserved the wine's primary characteristics through a quick process of maceration, pressing and sedimentation. It was then fermented at just below 18C and matured in steel for 6-12 months before bottling.

ABOUT WINEMAKER

Chateau Valtice was built on the traditional French Chateau model of the 15th century. Having survived two world wars, Chateau Valtice is one of Moravia's oldest and largest wineries.

Chateau Valtice takes the best from the past and combines it with the technological advances of the present. The wines are stored in both the historic cellars first cut in 1430 and in the most modern stainless steel tanks using both refrigerated controlled fermentation and traditional oak ageing. Many are also bottle matured in the ancient cellars where they are seasoned in the rich history of Moravian wine. The Valtice vineyards are part of the UNESCO biosphere world heritage site confirming the rare and unique attributes of the land. Chateau Valtice is at the heart of the Valtice village in the Mikulov viticultural sub-region of Moravia.